

Rubric: Quilt displaying members of Kingdom Protista

Students will draw, or use t-shirt transfers to print an image of organisms found in Kingdom Protista. Their nine images must accurately show protists, be cut effectively, and secured to fabric using applique method or traditional piece quilting techniques.

Protist Quilt

	Needs work 1 pts	Developing 5 pts	Aspiring 7 pts	Arrived 10 pts
1. Drawings of protists 2 pts Unicellular structure, beauty, design, and organelles are evident.	Needs work Students transferred images rather than making drawings of protists.	Developing Students had fewer drawings than Internet images.	Aspiring Students had more drawings than images from the internet.	Arrived Students drew pictures of protists.
2. Number of images 2 pts	Needs work Students included fewer than four different protists.	Developing Students included from five to six different protists.	Aspiring Students included from seven or eight different protists.	Arrived Students included nine different protists.
3. Neatness & Creativity 1 pts	Needs work Drawings were missing, or not neatly drawn with fine tipped markers, crayons, or colored pencils.	Developing Fewer than 6 drawings were neat and created with fine tipped markers, crayons, or colored pencils.	Aspiring More than 6 drawings were neat and created with fine tipped markers, crayons, or colored pencils.	Arrived Drawings were exquisitely drawn, and were both creative and colorful.
4. Squares secured to fabric 1 pts	Needs work Protist squares were not secured to background fabric.	Developing Protist squares were haphazardly secured to background fabric.	Aspiring Protist squares were neatly, and symmetrically secured to background fabric.	Arrived Protist squares were neatly, and symmetrically secured to background fabric. Exquisite sense of detail, color design, and stitching was evident.
5. Punctuality 1 pts	Needs work Student quilt was more than 5 days late.	Developing Student quilt was 3 or 4 days late.	Aspiring Student quilt was 1 - 2 days late.	Arrived Student quilt was submitted on time.

Comments:
